

Slips Are Sending People to First Aid at Depot B

To: All Depot B team members and shift supervisors | Week: 7 | From: Yvonne Wochuna, HSE

What's happening

Depot B has had 33 slip and trip incidents this period -- more than any other site, and nearly double the next highest. 82% of these happened on night shift, mostly near the transfer walkway. Ten of them were serious enough that they could easily have caused a life-altering injury. No one has been badly hurt yet. We want to keep it that way.

Why this matters to you

If you work nights at Depot B, you are walking through this area every shift. This isn't about blame -- it's about a walkway that keeps catching people off guard in low light. We'd rather fix it now than write a report about it later.

What we need you to do -- starting today

- Slow down through the transfer walkway, especially in the first and last hour of your shift.
- Report any wet, uneven, or poorly lit spots right away -- don't wait for the next inspection.
- Wear your issued slip-resistant footwear every shift, no exceptions.
- Use handrails where available, particularly on ramps and steps near the walkway.
- Speak up in your pre-shift huddle if you've had a close call, even a minor one -- it helps us find the pattern before someone gets hurt.

Questions or a hazard to report?

We mean it -- come find us. You will not get in trouble for raising a concern.

Yvonne Wochuna, HSE | wochunayvonne@gmail.com

Source: Week 7 HSE Safety Dashboard, safety_incidents.csv (Depot B, slip/trip incidents by shift).